

TOKAJ

Considered the oldest wine appellation in the world, the Tokaj wine region lies near the Tisza and Bodrog Rivers in northeastern Hungary and southeastern Slovakia. Centered on the town of Tokaj in the Hungarian foothills, the appellation is famous for its sweet, botrytized wines made from noble rot.

Region

5,967 hectares of growing area

27 villages

Production

10,028,000 liters produced annually

People

15,000 workers in the region

5,519 registered producers

588 wineries

Impact

€10,000,000 export value

Primary Grape Varietals

Furmint | Hárslevelű | Zéta | Kövérszőlő |
Sárga Muskotály (Yellow Muscat) | Kabar

